It all comes together in . . .

Most memories made while in school include at least two people—yourself and a friend.

Without friends, you have no memories, at least not pleasant ones. You have no-one to share your thoughts with, no-one to laugh with, and no-one to cry with. You have only a life of emptiness.

Friendship is the key source of memories.

Make a friend and it is guaranteed you'll have memories.

. . . Friendship

friendship—n. 1. The condition or relation of being friends. 2. Friendly feeling toward another; friendliness.

1. Joe Bob Ussery and one of his many friends. Amanda Simmons.
2. Kevin Frizzell and Andy Lee, eighth graders, have been best of friends since they started school together.
3. Lilly Montoya and Starmie Sears, each are always trying to make new friends.
4. "A friend is someone who knows all about you, but loves you just the same." It looks as though this applies to Sophomores, Liz Sutton, and Starmie Sears.
5. Probably the most recognized friendship on campus—Larry, Curly, and Moe; alias—Seniors—Teresa Frizzell, Beverly Guelker, and Tracy Jones.

Pride—n.—a sense of one's own proper dignity or value; self-respect.

. . . Pride

1. Sixth grader, Jason Jones, smiles big for the camera.
2. Cheryl Yarbrough, Junior, works hard on the jumpsuit she is preparing for home-making class.
3. The high-school cheerleaders are always pushing that "Trojan Spirit."
4. Tami Frizzell tries her luck at giving Beverly Guelker a new hair-style.
5. Pride was everywhere during the week of Homecoming.

Looking around Divide, one will notice the different aspects of pride that we have for our school. The pride that it takes to keep on trying, even after our fifth loss. The pride that surrounds us as we yell "We're number one," when the score is 0-40. The pride that shows in the expression on each juniors face, as they place their senior ring on their finger for the first time, as well as the pride that shows in the smile on the senior's face, as their tassels are being turned, declaring them graduates.

All are ways that prove of the pride we have for our school. A pride that has been carried on for generations.

It all comes together in . . . . . Determination

Students at DHS are always determined to achieve at least one goal. That goal could be making all A's, or even beating Blackwell in Basketball.

When one is determined to do something, they will either succeed or they will fail. After failing one time, the real failure quits and makes no effort to try again. One with determination will try again until he succeeds at his goal.

Only quitters fail, and failers are never determined in the first place.

1. Determination pays off as Andy Brannan places first with his pig.
2. Determined to finish mopping before midnite, Andy Brannan and Monty Jones take a break.
3. The Jr. High Cheerleaders and twirlers mount into a pyramid that obviously takes determination.

The varsity girls basketball team started with eight players, and ended with a mere four, due to injuries and ineligible players. Five girls started district play, but due to injuries from basketball and a motorcycle wreck, Libby Almanza was unable to play the last game, and Kelly Scott was pulled from the pre-season players to make up the fifth player.

Participating in the Rough Creek tournament at Novice, and the Trent tournament, the girls won some games, but brought home no trophies. Teresa Frizzell was chosen as an all-tournament team member at Novice, and received a small medal.

Two girls were chosen as all-district team members, with Tracy Jones receiving honorable mention, and Teresa Frizzell on the first-team selection.

No, they were not superstars; but the seven young men that Coach John Griffin started the season with were ready, willing, and able.

They put forth an enormous effort, and it paid off, with them winning several games.

The Trent, Highland, and Rough Creek Tournaments were places of disappointment for these guys. Not only did they lose some heart-breakers in the tournaments, but district play also contained some close games.

Junior, Tracy Jeter, was chosen to the second-team in all-district, need-less-to-say, others should have been chosen also. We've got a great bunch of basketball players, with each having the skill and interest to perform well.

High School Athletes—

Basketball—
Tami Frizzell, Beverly Guelker, Tracy Jones, Teresa Frizzell, Starmie Sears, and Kelly Scott were the only team members there to accept participation awards.

Kyle Patton, Todd Yarbrough, Steve McCaslin, Mike Morgan, Jerry Frizzell, Andy Falcon, Steve Sears, Tracy Jeter, Andy Brannan, and Jeff Jones, were the boys which received participation awards for football and/or basketball. Andy Brannan received the award for "Athlete of the Year".

Teresa Frizzell and Tracy Jones were both given the honor of being chosen as "Athlete of the Year".

Trojan Spirit Leaders

In April of '83, Kelly Scott, Tamisha Frizzell, and Cheryl Yarbrough were elected as cheerleaders. They started the year off by preparing for camp. Not only practicing yells and routines was involved. The girls also spent time working at part-time jobs, in order to pay for their camp tuition, camp uniforms, and season uniforms, which would eventually add up to a large amount of money.

In June, the girls neaded for Big Spring. No, it's not what your thinking. The three of them, alone with one of the parent-sponsors, Nancy Frizzell, attended a NCA Cheerleading camp which was held at Howard College in Big Spring. During that week, the squad learned many new routines, yells, chants, and fundraising ideas, as well as, how to get along with each other. They came home with many awards, (including a NCA Spirit Stick, which is the highest award which a squad can win) alot of new friends, and the true knowledge of what cheerleading is all about. Needless to say, they had lots of fun.

As the school year started, the cheerleaders busied themeselves with preparing for pep-rallies, and working with each other, as well as the pepsquad in order to better their performance.

At homecoming, they held Crazy Days. This gave everyone a chance to participate in homecoming activities. Elementary students were given the chance to enter in a poster contest, and Jr. High and high school students made class posters which were judged befor Homecoming.

No-one except the cheerleaders, their parents, and ex-cheerleaders, realize the expense which is involved in being a cheerleader. Not only alot of money, but alot of time, and thought as well.

High School Pep Squad—

Backing the Trojans—Every Step

Starting the year with only three members—Liz Sutton, Starmie Sears, and Teresa Frizzell, the high school pep squad put forth a tremendous effort in backing the Trojans.

Practicing after school on Tuesdays, making signs, and learning routines to hits such as MICHAEL JACKSON'S—"BEAT IT", kept these girls busy.

Ending with six members, the pep squad really had a great year.

Other members were Tracy Jones, Lilly Montoya, and Libby Almanza.

. . . CLASSES

The Class With Class . . .

1984—Our year. The year we graduate and go our separate ways. The year we make our debut as adults. We've looked forward to this year for a long time, and now that it is here, we can't help but feel that it has gotten here too soon.

As we look back over our senior year, as well as the other years we've spent together, we see how crazy we acted, how fabulous we thought we were, and how much trouble we caused. We realize that even though we weren't as perfect as we led on to be, we were special to many people, and we wouldn't change the things that we've done, the way that we acted, or the memories that we've made, for anything. (Even if we could.)

Unusually, we each have the ability to spread smiles, and make others laugh. But, not all of our days together were filled with smiles and laughter. At times, it seemed as though Mondays fell consecutively (day after day) for months at a time.

Many memories of the class of '84, will forever be a part of this school, but the memories we take with us are the ones which will often be pondered upon, as we remember each other as we were, not as we wish to be.

Memories such as walking into the boy's old dressing room, at the worst possible time. The memory of playing strip-poker in the back of the Dinsmore's van (not actually)—making promises that wouldn't be kept. And, the memory of eating pizza, talking about "Old Times", and hiding from the black Mustang, at the world's smallest and most unusual bachelor-ette party ever.

These things don't mean a thing to anyone except the seniors, but to them, it means alot.

In a couple of years we will probably get together and talk about all the stupid things that we did together in high school. Maybe by then Jeffery will have figured out what was so funny that day in accounting class. And, maybe by then the butter we put under the cabinet in the home-ec. room, will have either melted, or someone will have found it.

Yep, we've done some crazy things.

There is a whole lot to be said about the Junior class. The Junior class has the "GO-FOR-IT" that all others should have. And, one other good thing about the Juniors, is that when they set a goal, they go all out to achieve that goal.

For instance, Cheryl Yarbrough not only placed first in the "Voice of Democracy" essay contest held at our school, but the V.F.W. also awarded her as Second place winner at district level. Also, Cheryl will represent her class, as well as her school, at Girl's State this summer. Tracy Jeter displayed his skills as a basketball player, making his fellow-team members and our community proud to have him on the Trojan team. Luckily, some one else noticed his ability to play basketball, because he was chosen as a player for the second-team in all-district selection. And, who placed second with their lamb at the Sweetwater livestock show? Another Junior, Tami Frizzell. This list of achievements could go on and on, but then, we don't want to brag too much. (Do we???)

There's alot to be said about the Sophomore class. They are unique. There are no academic scholars in this class, but there are a bunch of great personalities and super talents.

If there is ever an argument involving a Sophomore, you can be assured that they will get the last, if not the only, word in. The Sophomores are always recieving credit for trouble caused in and around the school. Not that they don't cause alot of trouble, it's just that these kids have been blamed for alot of stuff that shouldn't have been blamed for. No one knows why they blame this class for everything, but it is true that when trouble is started, you can look around and find at least one Sophomore present. Maybe that is where the old saying, "When all is said and done . . . " comes from. Only around here the saying goes, "When all is said and done . . .

. . . There will be a Sophomore around to take the blame."

The Fish . . .

Well, life goes on, and for the Freshman class, that is something to really look forward to.

Being a freshman has it's advantages, but they won't realize it until they are Juniors, or maybe even Seniors.

Things that don't seem to important at the time, such as keeping grades up, gain a great deal of importance by the time the year is up. Your Freshman year is the year that you learn the most, but it isn't until later that you are actually aware of the lesson that has been learned.

STUDENT LIFE

The Art of Studying . . .

Sleeping, hunting, and shopping, may rank foremost on your list of most enjoyable activities, but do you at least rank STUDYING in the top ten? Probably not. Normally the classroom and study are not Academy Award Winners in life's most enjoyable categories. However, with a little help, you too will be able to list studying as one of your most favorite things to do. All you need do is follow the guidelines below.

—Study while sitting in front of the television and with the radio blaring in the background. This attack on your senses seems to close the mind. If your mother says anything to you, tell her it helps you concentrate. And this is the truth. You are better able to concentrate on this week-end, your date, the game, etc.

—Study with a friend. If at all possible, a friend of the opposite sex.

—Study at the library. The library always has a great collection of magazines and the latest novels. There is nothing better than spending the afternoon browsing through magazines. The library is also the ideal place for chatting with friends who are also studying.

—Study outdoors. Once you are outside in that nice fresh air, all thoughts of musty books are swept away from your mind. Tell your mom that a walk will help you to think better (not necessarily about homework, but . . .)

—Study and eat. Now this is the most important guideline. It takes awhile to stock up on the right foods, involving many trips to the refrigerator for replenishing the appetite. And all that exercise will do you good.

—Now that you have guidelines on how to study, use them diligently, unless of course, you are one of those people who like to study, and for you, well maybe in time there will be a cure for such an awful illness.

1. Sometimes it helps to appear to be studying as one can tell by the expression on Starmie Sears face.
2. Heather Baucom studies her next move.
3. Sixth and Seventh graders try and look as though they are deeply involved in their studies.

"The Lesson," by Eugene Ionesco, is a somewhat difficult play to understand. The play was presented by the U.I.L., Drama Club, after each character had been chosen by a board of judges. With only a few weeks to prepare for district competition, the cast got busy in effort to learn their lines, in order to present the play as well as possible. In Rotan, where district competition was held, the actors from Divide placed well. Receiving Honorable Mention as a team, all three cast members also received individual awards. Todd Yarbrough was chosen as an All-Star Cast member, and both Tracy Jones and Beverly Guelker were chosen as the Honorable-Mention recipients from Divide. With only one team ahead of them to keep them from advancing to area, Divide received some rather sad news after the area meet was over. The second place team which kept us from advancing to area was Lueders-Avoca, who, after the district meet, was disqualifed due to ineligibility. If we had known this sooner, we could have represented our school at the area meet, and may have even advanced further. Oh well, it was fun for everyone while it lasted, and we did win several awards while at Rotan. Everyone who participated in the competition at Rotan will remember it for quite a-while, and some will remember that day, better than others. (. . . Cheryl?)

Divide F.F.A. . . .

Divide Stockshow—

The annual Divide Stockshow was held on January 7, 1984 at the Vo. Ag. building. Sponsored by the F.F.A., surrounding businesses, and community members, entrants represented both F.F.A. and 4-H clubs.

Winners from each catagory included: (The names listed are those that showed the livestock. The owners name, if known, will appear in the parenthesis which follow.)

Grand Champion Cross Bred Lamb was the heavy weight lamb shown by Tracy Jones, and owned by Andy Lee.

The Showmanship Award for lambs went to La Tricia Palmer.

Richard Long, Vo. Ag. teacher from Ira, was the judge for these livestock events.

Yes, the F.F.A. is growing. Growing, and becoming more and more involved with club activities. Members this year totaled a big 21. Those members were, Steve McCaslin, Kyle Patton, Todd Yarbrough, Kelly Scott, Andy Falcon, Jerry Frizzell, and Randy Hughes. Also, Mike Morgan, Mike Head, Larry Cagle, Lilly Montoya, Libby Almanza, Ricky Head, Tracy Jeter, Steve Sears, Cheryl Yarbrough, Tamisha Frizzell, Andy Brannan, Teresa Frizzell, Tracy Jones, and Jeff Jones.

Most members were involved in at least one club project. Officers were Jeff Jones—President, Cheryl Yarbrough—Vice-President, Teresa Frizzell—Secretary. Other offices were filled by Todd Yarbrough, and Andy Brannan.

Members of the Parliamentary Procedure team were Kyle Patton, Todd Yarbrough, Kelly Scott, Mike Morgan, Mike Head, Ricky Head, Cheryl Yarbrough, and Libby Almanza.

Prophecies . . .

Ten years from now, we see our first senior, Andy Brannan, teaching Home Economics at Divide High School after being banned from all flight schools for trying to fly a top-secret B-1 bomber through a tunnel in Disneyland, only one week after his enrollment at TSTI in Waco.

Believe it or not our next Senior, Tracy Jones, has had a sudden growth spurt . . . The only problem is that we don't know if it's up or out.

In Ten years we see Teresa Frizzell as the hostess of the famous TV game show, "How to Catch a Husband!!"

Beverly Guelker has finally had her first child, after having been entered in the Guiness Book of World Records for the longest pregnancy.

Jeffery Jones, the computer genius of the century, has just succeeded in stoppong WW3, after working on Russia's massive computer system, and fixing (?!?) it for good.

Wills

I, Teresa Frizzell, will to Cheryl Yarbrough, the ability to catch the basketball without having to close my eyes first.

I, Jeffery Jones, will to Tracy Jeter, the sense of direction, so that he will no longer be confused as to which goal is our's, and will therefore make no points for the other team.

I, Tracy Jones, will to Steve Sears, the ability to ride in an elevator without having to mash the "Emergency Stop Button."

I, Andy Brannan, will to Tracy Jeter, my dad, for use during football games, so that he too will have someone to yell at the referees.

I, Beverly Guelker, will to Steve Sears, the ability to get as excited about his first child as he has been about mine.

I, Teresa Frizzell, will to Tamisha Frizzell, the Senior priority of hauling bon-fire wood during school, only I hope that she doesn't get caught.

ALOHA . . .

Saturday (Mar 26)—Finish packing and at 11:30 p.m. we start to load up and head for Dallas. The Jr. girls see us off.

Sunday (May 27)—Leave the DFW in-flight to Salt-Lake City, Utah at 9:15 a.m.. At Salt-Lake we take a larger plane (a DC-10) to San Francisco, and then on to Honolulu, Hawaii. We arrive at Honolulu at approximately 3:15 their time. (8:15 ours.) We spend the rest of the afternoon on the beach, and then head on to bed.

Monday (May 28, 1984)—Everyone spends their own day like they want to.

After a breakfast sponsored by our travel agency, Nancy and Barbara go on their first tour, (to a clothes factory) while everyone else heads for the beach.

Tuesday (May 29)—The guys head out for a day of snorkeling. The rest spend their day on the beach, and toward the end of the day, the older folks head for the jacuzzi. Some went to the zoo.

Wednesday (May 30)—Rent-a-car day. We all got up early, and headed for our own tour around the beach. The only thing truely profitable from this day, is that we learned that Hawaii does not believe in road-signs.

Thursday (May 31)—We all head for Hanauma Bay for an adventurous day of snorkeling. Everyone enjoyed this, and the graduates even engaged themselves in a little underwater photography. Tracy and Teresa got their pictures developed while they were still on the beach, and one thing for sure is that Teresa is not a good underwater photographer.

Friday (June 1)—We spent the afternoon on a cruise. The girls met and made several new friends. (Not guys either.)

Saturday (June 2)—The parents find that Waikiki Beach (where we stay) has as many fish as Hanauma Bay, so they then spend their day snorkeling, and just enjoying the beach. The girls go shopping and meet their first Hawaiian friend, Kaipo. The adults end their day by shopping, and then turn-in.

Sunday (June 3)—Our last day on the island. The morning is spent with everyone packing, and getting out of the room by 12:00. The guys and the parents go on a tour to Pearl-Harbor, and the girls wait to meet some friends. At 5:00 we all meet, and decide to be back at the hotel at 6:45. Everyone except for Teresa and Tracy go-out to eat. At 6:30 we more-or-less find each other, and everyone heads for the hotel lobby. For over 30 minutes we all sit around, and think of ways we could accidently have to stay here. We finally decided to go ahead and get the leaving part over with. We board the airplane at 9:30 (their time) and at 10:30 p.m. our time, Monday night we arrive at home.

Everyone was exhausted, but we did have a great time. To anyone who ever said that Hawaii was boring . . . SLAP YOUR FACE!

JUST FOR FUN!?!

What do folks at DHS do for fun? Read? Party? Sleep? Hide in closets? Go to concerts?

Everyone has their own way of having fun. The 83-84 school year kept everyone busy, but aside from school activities, students found time to go to Sweetwater and Abilene during the weekend, go out on dates, keep a part-time job and still do things like attend concerts and go to the show.

Hit movies this year were "Flashdance", "Return of the Jedi", "All the right Moves", "Risky Business", and "Mr. Mom".

Groups like "Alabama", "Z-Z Top", and "Loverboy", visited Abilene, and were alot of fun for everyone that attended. The Rattlesnake Roundup and Rodeos were also places where students were normally found.

Everyone can have fun, but only if they want to.

4. Football Sweetheart and Hero for 1983-84, Cheryl Yarbrough and Andy Brannan.
5. Homecoming Queen Nominees, Teresa Frizzell, Tracy Jones, Tamisha Frizzell, and Cheryl Yarbrough.
6. The Powder-Puff Pep-rally was alot of fun for everyone.

. . . Emotional and Exhausting!

The week started off slow, but ended with an exhausting sigh of relief. It had been busy for everyone, especially the Seniors and their parents, as they prepared for the Homecoming meal, mailed out invitations to D.H.S. exes, and took orders for Homecoming mums. The seniors also helped out other students with collecting bon-fire wood, plus other numerous odd-jobs.

The true excitement of Homecoming caught hold during the powder-puff pep-rally, as volunteer cheerleaders, Mike Head, Mike Morgan, and Steve Sears strutted their stuff to Z-Z Top's "Sharp Dressed Man." That evening, the high school girls played the "older women on the community" in a game of powder-puff football. An exhausting game that ended in a tie.

After the powder-puff was over, the bon-fire was lit. The cheerleaders led the crowd in some yells, and then we all sang the school song together.

Saturday, October the 22nd, was the big night for everyone. At half-time of the Divide-Novice game, Mr. Patton announced the four Homecoming Queen Nominees.

First to enter the field, was Junior nominee, Tamisha Frizzell. She was escorted by Kyle Patton and Mike Head. Cheryl Yarbrough, also a Junior contestant, was escorted in by Andy Brannan and Steve Sears. Jeffery Jones and Larry Cagle escorted Senior Tracy Jones to the center of the football field, with Senior Teresa Frizzell following closely behind with her escorts, Jerry Frizzell and Andy Falcon.

After all of the contestants were in formation, Mr. Patton announced the Football Hero nominees. They were Jeffery Jones, Steve Sears, Andy Brannan, and Tracy Jeter.

Kelly Scott escorted Football Hero, Andy Brannan to the center of the field. Seniors, Andy Brannan and Jeffery Jones took the spotlight as they walked around the Queen nominees, keeping everyone in suspense as they awaited the perfect moment to recognize the Homecoming Queen. Finally, Teresa Frizzell was crowned as Homecoming Queen and Cheryl Yarbrough was chosen as Football Sweetheart.

The game ended, as well as the week. With only memories to account for all the time that was involved. But, wasn't it worth it?!!

It all Comes Together In . . .

Each year about one-hundred students at Divide make some sort of progress. Moving a step higher on the ladder of education, is a type of progress. Progress for an eighth grader is to be a Freshman, for a Senior, to graduate, and for a teacher, progress is making it through ONE MORE YEAR!!! Everyone progresses in different ways, depending on what they intend to achieve. To progress one must have a set goal. A goal to go somewhere, to do something, or to be someone.

Progress—(prog' res') n.
movement toward a goal.

1. The high-school boys basketball team showed progress throughout the year.
2. Some students displaying their awards which they received during the week of homecoming.
3. Graduation was a great progression for Senior, Teresa Frizzell.
4. Turkey-walk poster contest winners, Jeromie Baugh, Mindy Reynolds, Jake Falcon, and Roseann Yarbrough.

. . . Divide

Nolan, a small community located about twenty miles south of Sweetwater.

A combination of different people, with different personalities, working toward different goals.

Older generations working toward the development of the best possible education for the younger one. Glancing around Divide, one notices a different expression on each person's face, each expression symbolizing our school.

Smiles, tears, happy moments, sad moments, all apart the life at DHS.

3. The powder-puff pep-rally revealed many unknown, as well as unusual, personalities.

4. A very common expression around DHS, boredom, is expressed on the faces of several American History students.

5. Always ready to brighten anyones day, Penny Baucom and Mary Ussery smile for the camera.

We're sure you've heard the story before, but just in case . . .

. . . Years ago, our school was destroyed by fire. A disaster that effected everyone in the community, leaving many with broken hearts, and painful memories. The community worked together to rebuild our school. Everyone helped out, and now, over eleven years later, something is happening and has happened, and not many people are aware of it.

We, The senior class of 1984, is, within itself a very special class. We are the last students to have attended the old school. From here-on-out the students which talk about the old school, will not be talking about the old school as we knew it.

We would like to remember the school as it was to us, and not as others saw it. We seniors are truely the last class, which is privileged enough to talk about "OUR" school, that is, the one that burnt. Even though we were young then, we still have many fond memories of that old building, and will cherish those memories forever.

We are The Seniors of 1984. The last class to attend both schools, the last class able to say, "Thanks for both of the memories."
